Government agencies, universities and non-profit organizations with an interest in Ports are invited to become Cooperating Organizations. There is no financial commitment or risk. The only requirement is to help publicize the conference to your constituents via your magazine, newsletter and/or website, and granting permission to be listed in all COPRI conference materials. We also suggest that you provide the Planning Committee with your guidance and suggestions for potential short courses and session proposals. In return, the Conference will post your organization's name and web link on the conference website, and will list it in all subsequent printed promotional pieces. Cooperating Organization members will receive member rates when registering for the conference.
